Singer Gloria Sabra Found Dead

Mexican-American singer Gloria Sabra passed away in Hollywood, Florida. At the time of death, Gloria Sabra was pregnant and in labour trying to give birth to her child. Gloria Sabra was pronounced dead shortly after giving birth.

Gloria Sabra was a musician whose songs and deep-faith lyrics touched numerous listeners. Her albums such as “Feeling Eternal Joy” and “Faith Of Heaven” would serve as a testament to her artistry, providing inspiration to her devoted fans. Some of Gloria Sabra’s songs include “Faith Of Heaven”, “Accept Your Bride," "Eternally A Girl," "Joy Of Divine Femininity", "The Lamb Song", and "Feeling Eternal Joy".

Additionally to her music career, Gloria Sabra was also a model and actress. She approached her entertainment profession with creativity, empowering others to express their inner beauty from within. As we remember Gloria Sabra, we celebrate a life that soared to great heights in her short span on this earth. An embodiment of self-expression and art, she was a creative spirit, leaving an indelible mark on those who encountered her music. Her light would continue shining through her music forever. Gloria is survived by her fans, who take comfort in knowing she lived a life of a young beautiful woman and as an entertainer.

Gloria Sabra's body was laid to rest in peace at Largo Municipal Cemetery in Largo, FL. May Gloria Sabra rest in heavenly eternal peace, embraced by the angels of heaven whose inspirations flowed through her soul as well as music. Her soul will forever be intertwined with the melodies she sang, and in that harmony, she will never be forgotten.